The Coupe

an example of the fine Coachwork of the Ford Closed Models

The art of master designer is evident in the smart, low lines and graceful contour of the Ford Coupe emphasized by two-tone color harmonies.

Set against these body colors are the full-nickel radiator, headlights and door handles—smart touches of bright metal that add a great deal to the attractiveness of the car. Running boards and crown fenders are heavy and substantial. Cushions are deep and easy. Upholstery is rich and durable. Newly designed steel spoke wheels carry out the impression of an all round fleet, sturdy car.

The same quality is evident in the mechanical simplicity of the engine, transmission and all mechanical parts. In appearance and performance, the New Ford brings you everything you want or need in a modern automobile.

"REDSKIN"

RICHARD DIX renders his greatest performance on the screen as the modernized, educated Navajo Indian who is cast out by his own people because of his refusal to adopt again the customs of his tribe. It is a story of the present day—of an Indian boy and a girl. Tribal hatreds rise to keep them apart. Their mad fight to retain their love for each other despite tremendous odds is the basis of the story which has been acclaimed throughout the country.

Practically all of this picture is photographed in natural colors.

IN AND AROUND THE CLUB

The boss says he likes this column, but then he does not have to write it, does he?

The provincial convention is this week, and there is where you meet the real fellows.

Quite a number of the boys were up in the air on Sunday, and they did not use a plane either.

Did you have your shower yet? No, Mabel, we did not mean rain.

Looks like we might have quite a good time on the 24th. Of course nobody is going to miss the fights (in the rink) on that night.

Have you noticed all the new golf bags in town? (No, no Joe, we did not spell it with a "u"). We wonder if clubs are the sole contents.

Speaking of golf—did you hear about the lady who chased her husband round the house with a golf club. Wonder what she made the round in.

Where are the tennis racquets the football boys used to carry around last summer. We know where the girls are.

One man at Traverses deserves to be mentioned in dispatches and presented with a medal. He is the guy who gave his casting vote on the L.O. question.

The Gleichen branch are following our example in promoting boxing. They even adopt the same type of poster. You show them all, Joe.

We offer no excuse for using this column to draw attention to the football game between Vulcan and Union Jack on Sunday first for the benefit of Matt Copland. Matt got his eye knocked out last season and now has a broken shoulder. All you sports get out and do your stuff.

S. and M. are very quiet these days, but we think it is the calm before the storm. You speculators watch out.

Bill says Coventry City is a "comer" but Johnnie says "the world's worst".

Saw Uncle Sam with the recipe for Hovis bread the other day, but the results have not yet come to hand.

What are the wild waves saying? Ask Alf or Tom they should know.

Well goodnight and thank you very kindly.

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the Parish Hall on May 9th. Mrs. Stack resigned as treasurer and Mrs. J. D. McIntyre was elected. Mrs. A. Mitchell elected as corresponding secretary. Mrs. Dave McIntyre was re-elected on the sick committee. After the meeting was over a number went to Mrs. McIntosh's home. While there they presented Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh with silver salt and peppers. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh leave behind them the good wishes of many friends.

REV. O. P. BURRIS LEAVES VULCAN

The congregation of the Church of Christ at Vulcan exchanged farewells with their first minister Rev. O. P. Burris, at a recent social assembly and the church service on Sunday night. Rev. Mr. Burris has accepted the pastorate of a church in Oregon, the state from whence he came and where his family reside. Occasion was made by the members of the church and the adherents to express in sincere and definite manner their appreciation of the service rendered by a pastor who has attained to an eminent success during the eleven months of a very active term. The expression of good will and appreciation were made in various manner and by leaders in the several departments of the church organization and the token of same was a beautiful gold pen and pencil. In acknowledgement, the retiring pastor was reciprocal in spirit and in truth gave credit to the congregation for the co-operation which had produced the signal success that had been realized. It was truly a parting of mutual good will, and the public generally will join in the sentiments so well expressed by the congregation.

Mr. Burris came to Vulcan in the formative period of the local church and congregation on June 15th, just eleven months ago, and the progress in organization and accomplishment in every department of the institution is a mark of merit to the man of talent who had a mind to work. The success has been spiritual as well as material, evidenced in the building of a splendid edifice and the steady growth of membership and the activities of same. It is a fine record to report the parting of a pastor and his people, and if the spirit prevails as was evident in this event, both have promise of a valuable future.

LOCAL ITEMS

Thursday last Vulcan band rendered a fine selection of music in the open air, near the Imperial hotel. In spite of the somewhat chilly weather the program was much appreciated.

There was quite a large crowd from Vulcan at Queenstown dance last Friday night. Len Davis and his orchestra supplied first class music and every one had an enjoyable evening.

Many friends here heard with regret of the death of Oscar Tideman which took place at Red Deer yesterday. The funeral will take place from the United Church, Vulcan, tomorrow (Friday) at 2:30 o'clock.

Sunday morning an aeroplane from Messrs. Anderson Bros., Calgary, arrived in town, having as a passenger Mrs. Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Mutz. During the day Pilot Thompson was kept busy taking Vulcan citizens up in the air for their first trip.

Mr. J. D. McIntyre, the local agent, has just been advised that the millionth Frigidaire, electric refrigerator was built yesterday. There will be a demonstration of this popular utility in the L.O.O.F. Hall on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 28th and 29th, afternoon and evening, and everybody is invited.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

Large congregations assembled at the United Church Sunday morning and evening to pay their loving tribute to "mothers."

In the morning, the hymns; special music by the C.G.I.T. girls; the "Story of the Quest" by Edna McPherson, and the address on the "Rewards of Motherhood" by Rev. J. N. Brunton were in keeping with the spirit of a Mother's Day service.

In the evening three anthems were most beautifully rendered by the choir under the able leadership of Mr. Frank Bird.

Mr. Brunton in telling the story of Ruth put her mother-in-law "Naomi" in the place of honor, not because she is more lovable than Ruth but because she accounts for Ruth. Had it not been for Naomi, Ruth would have lived and died in the land of Moab. So that one woman remaining true to God became a highway along which God walked to the accomplishment of His purpose for the redemption of the world.

There was a large attendance at Berrywater in the afternoon and a special feature of this service was Mother's Day story by Ethel Campbell, followed with a solo "Mother's Prayer" by her father Mr. Neil Campbell. At Red Cross the Sunday school had full charge of the service with Mrs. Robt. Love (one of the mothers of the district) presiding. The songs recitations by the children, together with a story by Miss Little, united to make a most delightful service.

Rev. Mr. Brunton gave an appropriate address at each point.

Service will be held at Vulcan next Sunday as usual, morning and evening and at Mayview at 2 and Red Cross 3:30 p.m.

BOXING AT GLEICHEN

Frankie Jackson will be seen in action on Friday, 17th at Gleichen against Kid Norwest. Dannie Jackson and Jack Jensen will have it out in a six round bout and a few more of the local boys will accompany the party. The local fans are hoping that the boys will come home as winners, and a large crowd from Vulcan and district is expected to go and give the boys local support.

VICTORIA DAY TO BE BIG EVENT IN VULCAN

The committee: Messrs. Errett King, E. G. McPherson, G. C. Collier, R. L. Elves and Mayor Butchart is making most satisfactory progress for a really big event in Vulcan on Victoria Day and the day following.

Arrangements have been made for worth-while games of baseball, football and basketball between local teams and clubs from the district.

Anderson Bros. aeroplane will be here and many who took the opportunity for a flight on Sunday last will look for this chance to "take the air" again.

Through the co-operation of the local lodge of the I.O.P.E., the added attraction of the Kapel All Canadian Shows will go far to ensure a most successful day, and thus help Vulcan Athletic Association to open the season with funds in hand for a worthwhile campaign in the interest of town and district. Each night there will be dances in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Fuller particulars as to sports will be found in our advertising columns.

CARD FOR VICTORIA DAY

The promoters of Vulcan branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., have arranged one of the best all around cards which will be staged at the municipal arena on May 24th.

The main bout will be for the featherweight championship of Western Canada and will be between Mel Cowie, the champion, and Len Harris the challenger. Cowie needs no introduction as he has been seen in action here on several occasions and is known for his cleverness and clean sportsmanship, while Harris is a stranger to Vulcan, most everyone has heard of him and he is considered the best boy in his weight and, according to the reports, Mel Cowie will have to be at his best to retain his Buxton belt.

In the semi-windup the local fans will get a chance to see Jack Jensen in action. He is one of the most promising boys that have ever struck town and his opponent will be A. Kramer, a well known Calgary boy. This bout should equal the main go for action.

The promoters are trying to line up a good boy for young Dannie Jackson for a special event, as Dannie has been seen here a couple of times and proved to be a good crowd pleaser.

Billy Trevenon will be matched with some good boy. And two more bouts will round out this big holiday card.

E. J. Don Rowand will be able to get away from his work to referee the whole card.

The promoters are doing their best to make this card the best they ever had at Vulcan and the local fans know that it will have to be a good one, as we have had some of the best bouts in the country lately.

Mrs. Deans and Mrs. Harry Smith thank the institute for flowers while in the hospital, also for bank accounts opened for their young sons.

CHURCH OF CHURCH NEWS

We wish to leave a closing message for the people of Vulcan. We closed last Sunday, one of the best short time locations we have ever held. We were more than pleased with the day, and the many friends that greeted us. We feel we have an enrichment to our lives, and list of friends, that will last through time and enrich eternity. No church for which I have labored has ever surpassed this one in faith and earnestness. This community is better off from every point of view because of its existence. It should have the support and good will of every good citizen. They will carry on. Bro. J. W. Jenkins of Alderside will be present next Lord's Day and will continue until a man is secured. Give him a hearing. His life is rich in good works.

We leave to take up a work near home, at Vernonia, Ore. Our prayers and good wishes follow the church and community.

DO NOT INVITE FAILURE

The dates for the year's examinations in connection with the Department of Education have been announced. Students are looking forward with anxiety to this crucial period in the year's experiences. Some of them are already trying to decide what they will do should they fail in the year's examinations. Naturally that course takes the spirit out of their study. "In the lexicon of youth," wrote Bulwer Lytton, "there is no such word as fail." The youthful, ardent, hopeful spirit does not take failure into account. It assumes success and so is far more likely to win it.
Young folks! Put on your courage and determination to win, make your best possible preparation and go into the examinations, when the time arrives, bound under all circumstances to be successful.—Acton Free Press.

WORLD'S WEALTHIEST COUNTRY

In a recent article, written for a Toronto financial paper, James E.
Boyle Professor of Agricultural Economics at Cornell University, very significantly states: "Canada is a country of vast virgin resources. The United States is sometimes spoken of as the richest country in the world, due to the immense progress of both agriculture and industry in that country. The fact is, however, that Canada is a country of larger area and of far greater wealth in natural resources per capita. With a balanced development of Canadian resources, coupled with an equally balanced growth of those two great arteries of economic life—transportation and banking—Canada is destined to be the wealthiest country in the world.
Already her exports per capita have a value four times those of the United States."

A POSTAL NUISANCE

The Canadian post office is still burdening its letter carriers and cluttering up the mail boxes of householders with advertising circulars that are neither addressed nor stamped. The practice involves risk of loss to important private letters, it is a nuisance to recipients, and by giving him work that requires no intelligence, it degrades the postman. Although numerous complaints have come from many sources, the post office has not only continued but enlarged the pernicious practice.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

An old-fashioned community is where the neighbors wonder who is sick at your place when there is a light on after ten o'clock.

It costs a lot of money making the road safe for autocracy.

Harry Sinclair, the millionaire oil operator doesn't want to go to jail.
Funny ideas these big oil operators get.

A farmer who bought a thoroughbred sheep took action against the vendor on the ground that the animal was not registered. The defendant proved that the animal was registered and the action was dismissed with costs. They probably found it on the ram page.

It has been pointed out that the Supreme Court of Canada sits in an old carpenter shop in Ottawa. That accounts for the old saws we get from that bench.

There's no use moralizing. No sooner do bandits rob a synagogue than another lot go and hold up the bankers of a crap game. If we could only localize the war, it would not last long.

A crack cricket player in Australia has been knighted. It will have no effect here in reviving the game, because titles of honor and distinction are taboo in Canada. Of course the ban on titles may be lifted before the game is over.

The names of members of parliament appear among the directors of some new companies whose stock is being sold to the public. For that reason such stocks should be avoided by the public.

You can get more "bum steers" from members of parliament than from any other body of the same size and weight.

Why certainly. If they were married while up in an airplane it is quite proper to refer to them as the high contracting parties.

Immigrants from southern Europe should be examined closely to make sure that they are not smuggling ven-dettas into Canada.

But how do you know? His income tax return may be perfectly correct.
He may have been lying when he was telling you about all the money he made last year.

Isn't there a real danger that all this excitement about oil may affect its gravity?

The sinking of the "I'm Alone" is another case of zeal among men who have been taught that they are entitled under the constitution to the enjoyment of life, liberty and the happiness of pursuit.

Again they are discussing the question whether clergymen should smoke.
Why not? We do.

No particular class should be debarred from the privilege of paying taxes to the state.

Harry F. Sinclair offered to bet they'd never put a hundred million dollars in jail.

His words were true; his bet he'll win.

We cannot harbor any doubt.

They put the boastful owner in
And left the hundred million out.

Crime, says President Hoover, has increased so much as to make life and property more unsafe in the United States than in any other civilized country. Some acts that are now crimes were not crimes there fifteen years ago and are not accounted crimes in other countries, but Mr.
Hoover meets this by stating that felonies attributable to the Volstead Act sum up to only eight per cent. He will find it more difficult to estimate how far the violation of one law breeds disrespect for other laws, and more difficult still to explain that the condition to which he confesses should exist in the presence of an act designed to make men more moral and more temperate and believed by him to be achieving that result.

INVITED IN FRIENDSHIP

It was a somewhat unfortunate statement by Hon. Champ Clark that helped to kill the 1911 reciprocity pact. A great American railway president almost made a similar remark the other night. Paul Shoup, head of the Southern Pacific, was presiding at the annual dinner of the United States Chamber of Commerce and was introducing the Canadians present. He said: "We recognize no boundary line between here and Canada except the line of friendship. And we know that the day is coming when these two nations will be united in—"
At that point Mr. Shoup realized that he would have to be very careful if he did not want to be misinterpreted. He paused for a moment and then went on: "—in even closer bonds of friendship."

Canada consumes 1150 units per person; United States 710; Great Brittain 282 and France 250 units.
Saskatchewan elections are set for June 6. The race will be between Liberals and Conservatives.

ABOUT YOUR PERMIT

Thousands of travellers in the woods, more than ever before because the travel permit areas are being extended—will be accosted this year with the question "Have you got your permit?" The fire ranger who asks you this question may or may not be in uniform but if you are in doubt as to his authority he can show you his badge.

Why are you asked to obtain a permit to travel the woods that belong to the people of Canada. Simply to assist your guardians of the forests, who represent after all only a nucleus staff, to protect your forest wealth. If you wish efficient forest protection at a minimum cost then you must do part of the protection work yourself. It must be a co-operative affair or otherwise your representatives—the fire rangers—must fail. In a safe year perhaps the lack of your individual co-operation might pass—there might not be disastrous results from some careless action with fire on your part or on that of the party of which you are a member. But you as a novice in the fire fighting game don't know enough and consequently cannot afford to take any chances with fire, whether you think it safe or not. For all you know, it may be a dangerous period or it may be even a fire year.

Let us also urge picnic parties and those who frequent the forest reserve to be careful about throwing empty bottles carelessly in the grass or woods. A hot glaring sun reflected on a bottle may start a bad fire. Campers should use every precaution.

BRAVED 1000 YEARS

The Union Jack was the subject of an address recently by Rev. Geo. Bidle formerly of Vulcan. He said every flag is in a sense a pocket edition of a nation's history, its aspirations, its ideals. All through history nations have had banner and floating insignia in which were wrapped up the story of their achievements. Even in early Biblical times, the Princes of the House of Israel assembled "and planted their standards." So down through the ages, banners are recorded. In the old feudal days of England, each House had its sign floating over its army. So incensed were these ancient warriors in their armor that only by the colors flying, could they recognize which House was marching upon them.

Although the flag of St. George—the old English flag, was first introduced on land, it was on the sea that it won greatest glory.

St. George was of noble Christian parents of Cappadocia. His life was devoted to the redressing of wrongs, the protection of women, the pursuit of Christian chivalry. He was martyred in 361 A.D., and was honored by many nations.

His cross first triumphed at sea in the days of King Richard the Crusader. King Richard built himself "254 tall ships and three score galliots" and with these he set sail to the Holy Land. On his way he met the Saracens at Beirut, and vanquished them. This was the first great sea victory under the flag of St. George and as a coincidence, the battle took place at almost the point where tradition says that St. George slew the dragon. It is supposed however, that the dragons which St. George slew were dragons of sin and oppression.

Under this flag King Richard first showed the mettle of his Crusaders. Later, under that same flag Edward claimed the Lordship of the Seas.

Under it, the French battlefields re-echoed to the cries of Merrie England.

Under it the undying glory of Crassey Portiers and Agincourt were achieved.

Under it Cabot discovered Cape Breton, Drake sailed round the world. Frobisher explored the north-west passage, Raleigh founded Virginia.

The navy of Elizabeth carried confusion to the fleets of the Spanish Armada as the colors of St. George flew above it.

This is the glory roll that justifies the title "Mistress of the Seas" for it was on the seas that England won greatest glory.

England's early struggles to retain the supremacy of the seas are interesting in themselves.

King Alfred first sowed the seed, when he gathered together a few ships in order to go out and meet the Danes, instead of waiting for Danish invasion.

Later the Normans won supremacy and under William the Conqueror the Normans and English combined in holding the seas. All school boys recall the time when Van Tromp, the dutchman swept the seas of English ships "with a broom at the mast."

But mighty Blake retaliated by sailing forth with streaming whiplike pennant, to lash the Dutch. Ever since the long "whiplike" pennants used by the navy has this significance.

In Elizabeth's day, so great was the jealousy for the flag of St. George, that every nation on the seas, was required to lower its flag on recognizing the flag of St. George. This, then was the first cross in the British flag.

The Scotch flag or "jack" was that of St. Andrew, the white cross on blue field. Tradition tells that some of the sacred relics of St. Andrew the Apostle were brought to Scotland. But the story of the adoption of his cross dates to 987 A.D., when the King of the Scots went to the relief of the Picts in a battle with the West Saxons. All night long the Scots army spent the night in prayer, and when dawn broke, against the azure sky extended the two arms of the Cross of St. Andrew. They went confidently to battle and were victorious, attributing their victory to the guardianship of St. Andrew. Many valiant deeds were done under the flag of St. Andrew.

When James VI of Scotland became James I of England, the Jacks or flags were united by Act of Parliament.

Why was St. Patrick chosen by the Irish? St. Patrick was a Scotchman born in Dunbarton on Clyde. He is supposed to have adopted the cross which is his sign from the sacred monogram of St. Constantine, which meant "in this sign ye shall conquer." While the Cross of St. George swept the seas, the cross of St. Patrick, weaves its way through melody and verse of the Irish.

In 1801 in the reign of George III the three crosses were united by Act of Parliament and became one.

The United "Jack" waves over the great British Constitution. Its colors stand for courage, purity and truth. It represents freedom. It is the boast that under that flag no slave ever dwells.

All over the world, on land or sea, it carries its message of valor and protection. To the children of Canada, in those crosses, lie the stories of the welding of English, Irish, and Scotch accomplishment and aspiration

OIL NEWS

A trip to Turner Valley reveals the fact that the oil field is rapidly swinging south. On Friday a reporter motored there via Tongue Creek road. At the turn of the road leading to the Valley there is considerable activity with Royalite, East Crest, Sterling Pacific and numerous other wells drilling or having derricks erected preparatory to drilling operations.

At the Home Oil well a party of Vancouverites numbering about fifty were inspecting this wonder well which has made many millionaires at the coast. The terrific flames from the burning surplus gas from Home No. 1 made a deep impression on the visitors. The information was given that approximately 15 million feet of gas was going to waste there every day. At the Separator they saw the evidence of production which is holding steady at 600 barrels per day. At Home No. 2 well they saw the drillers installing the diamond drill machinery and the report was given that drilling would commence which would bring in another well such as No. 1 well. No. 2 well is down to a depth of 5353 and is close to production. No. 1 well struck oil at a depth of 5280 feet. A third well will be drilled as soon as No. 2 has been brought in.

The coast visitors visited various Royalite wells, Okalta, new McDougall-Segur and they went over the holdings of leading companies, particularly those holdings within the lines of structure.

The information was given that day that there are now over 100 derricks in the field with approximately sixty producing wells. This was news to us as our interest had been centered on the big producers and we had overlooked the many other wells giving a lesser production.

The trend of drilling is unquestionably going south and before the year is over High River should be the distributing centre for drilling machinery and building materials. At the present time materials for seven wells is being supplied from this point and numerous other wells are in the offing.

On the various derricks notices are posted forbidding smoking. Mr. McLeod, production manager of the Imperial Oil Co. has issued a grave warning to the public visiting Turner Valley wells. He has asked all sightseers not to smoke at the wells as the hazard is too great. Not only does it endanger the lives of smokers but it places the lives of workmen in jeopardy as well as the property. He explained that the air around many of the producing wells is laden with combustible naphtha gas and it might easily burn a bystander to a cinder as well as do damage to derrick and machinery. Visitors must exercise caution otherwise they will be kept away from premises entirely.

On Friday afternoon word came to the management of Advance Oils that the Imperial Oil Co. had taken over drilling operations that day at Toronto of that well.

McDougall Segur well No. 2 came in with great force on Thursday last but the production had not been estimated. However it looks like a fair producer, somewhere over 200 barrels per day.

Royalite No. 1 struck some oil on Saturday morning about 10 o'clock, but as yet an estimate has not been made as to production. The well has been connected up to tanks to take care of the flow. The drill was down to a depth of 3825 feet. It is located a few hundred yards from Regent No. 1 and No. 2.

Regent No. 1 is a fair producer of over 100 barrels per day. The roar of gas from this well is deafening and the flame is greater than the Macleod. It was said that an attempt will be made to deepen the well into greater production.

The derrick for Regent No. 2 was being completed and drilling on the new well should commence shortly. These properties are very well located, being close to Okalta and Macleod wells.

Model oils located more to the north, struck a showing of oil on Friday. The well is down about 4400 feet and has one of the longest strings of 10 inch casing known. The manager of this company is highly regarded. Prof. W. L. Carlyle of the E. P. ranch is a director of this company.

Vulcan Oils is now a steady producer and when the lost tools have been released and the well deepened a little deeper, you will hear something fine for Vulcan Oils. Under new management Vulcan Oils is becoming popular with the investing public.

Warner Oils is another well that is of interest to High River people as it indicates the trend of oil south and west of High River. This well is situated on the Ings' ranch, several miles south-west of the Highwood Imperial. Senator Dan Riley is president and C. J. Yorath of the Natural Gas Co. is on the board of directors. Jas. N. Bond is the local agent at this point for the purchase of stock.

Highwood well is located on the Ings' ranch, west of High River and is down 4185 feet. The log of this well is said to show high indications of a real producer and the drill is now near producing sands.

High River Oil Fields on Mr. Ramage's farm west of town, shows signs of activity. The derrick was finished on Tuesday. The bunk houses have been erected, the engine placed and when the boiler has been installed and the cellar cemented drilling will commence. A heavy standard six inch is now on the ground and will soon commence on its search for oil in this new and interesting field. James N. Bond of High River, is president of the Company.

The Twin Dome Oils on the Carlton farm, Davisburg district, is another well that commands attention. E. Sleeman is the president with J. de Foras and J. Hagman as first and second vice presidents. Those who have investigated the structure of this property say it has great possibilities.

Drilling operations to determine the been undertaken. The work is being carried on by Geo. L. Holmes of San

CANADIAN AUTHORS

"The mind of the Canadian public is as a whole averse to what is obviously cheap and tawdry in book creation. And the many novels coming from Canadian pens have at least been healthy, decent and enjoyable.

"But while this is true, very few in my humble judgment have been masterful enough in style, treatment and subject to challenge more than ordinary notice. They reached a medium level and maintained it with growing improvement, but they have not climbed to the mountain peaks. They have not produced masterpieces. The reason is two fold—first, because they have not steeped themselves sufficiently in the great underlying philosophies of life in order to bring out the conflicts of spiritual moral and mental forces with those of ambition, greed, envy, jealousy, hatred; secondly, because they have perhaps been dominated by commercial considerations.

"I can think of only a few of recent years that deal with the big moving forces of life. Those are Marie Chapdelaine, The Viking Heart and Our Little Lives.

"Within the last two or three years Frederick Philip Grove's book "Our Daily Bread," seems to most nearly approach a high standard. What other writer has presented so skillfully the conflict between the old patriarchal idea of family life as against the modern tendency of disintegration and carelessness?

To be sure the author ignores the law of averages in making every member of a large family, in spite of parental oversight, turn out badly.

"But it is a price of writing away above the average."

U. S. VIEWPOINT

Mr. Castle Speaks in Canada on Trade Relations

At the present moment, there are a number of questions affecting Canadian-American relations which are absorbing the grave attention, not only of statesmen of both countries but of every individual in the slightest degree interested in national affairs.
Chief of these matters are trade relations, the St. Lawrence Waterways, prohibition enforcement, and the "rights of the air" in broadcasting.
Two outstanding speakers have recently presented their views on these matters—Wm. Castle assistant secretary of State at Washington, spoke in Montreal and C. H. Cahan, K.C., of Montreal spoke at the Chamber of Commerce, Washington. Both dealt with the same all important questions. The speeches were given in full in the Calgary Herald from the pen of Paul Reading.

We make no apology in quoting extracts from both addresses as nothing can be of more importance to us as citizens than to realize, how public men of both countries are thinking.

Mr. Castle—the friendly yet candid diplomat from Washington.
"Sometimes misunderstandings are due to the fact that one side is thinking theoretically, the other practically. An instance is the heated talk about radio broadcasting. When the great demand was made on the Radio Commission for channels, these channels were assigned without much thought for possible needs of others—either Canadian or American. But when the two countries met at Ottawa to make assignments, a reasonably fair decision was reached regarding short waves. It must have been fair to Canada, because instant complaint rose in U.S. However, though, we have not what we could use, we have what we actually need. If originally, there had been an insistent demand for broadcasting in Canada, you would probably have done as we did, and would now be faced with the trouble of clearing channels which are in constant use. And I say frankly, that I have no interest in silencing American stations, in order to give Canada the channels it wants, unless these channels are to be put in immediate use as the result of great demand. The probable way to influence the American radio commission is to create an insistent American demand for Canadian programs. Marconi said at the international conference that in time the simultaneous use of single waves by different stations will be possible. Let us then aid our radio technicians and soon the problem will settle itself.

Regarding the St. Lawrence Waterways, there is not in the mind of any American, the idea of challenging the absolute sovereignty of Canada over those long stretches in Canadian territory. The truth is—it is to the interest of producers to send their products to world markets over the best routes. At certain seasons American grain can be more cheaply shipped via Montreal. At other times Canadian grain can best pass through American ports. Our aim, in suggesting the St. Lawrence Waterway, was to provide cheaper transportation for the farmers. The fact that the business of the ports of Montreal and Quebec would be doubled or trebled must be noted.

The U. S. could construct an all-American route through New York.
This is a popular, but seems uneconomic and unneighborly. The deep water route would be of great to both countries.

Now as to customs tariffs. The problem of our mid-west farmers is vital. They feel that one method of relief is protective tariff, the other is cheap transportation. The St. Lawrence construction would take a long time, but if it could exist in the actual future, the farmers would be willing to wait. This to my mind is the only reason for associating these two matters. They are alternating relief. And the St. Lawrence method seems the better because it is co-operation, helping all western farmers.

Now a word about prohibition. Our law after all is a noble experiment, in that it has a serious moral and economic basis. In spite of obvious failures, the working classes are more prosperous, savings have increased and efficiency has been raised. The American government is deeply appreciative of the friendly spirit shown by the Canadian government to our prohibition law. This attitude demonstrates real co-operation.

In immigration matters our endeavor is to leave Canada out of consideration in our law making. There is no quota on Canada. Millions cross the border either way annually. But if one immigration official makes a mistake, do not put it down to the nation. Nations require a sense of humor and proportion in their dealings.

Regarding your unfavorable trade balance which was in 1927 something like $215,000,000. Remember, however, that American tourists spend $206,000,000 in 1927 in Canada, in excess of Canadian tourists in U.S. Figures are misleading at times.

One of the most important aids to national understanding is that we should have open minded clear thinking and sympathetic representatives in both countries. I am sure we have.

In conclusion regarding tariff. You must realize that we are faced with sharp need to aid our farmers. A tariff might help. The St. Lawrence waterways certainly would.

NATIONAL SCHOOLS

A movement has been gaining ground amongst various bodies throughout Canada to nationalize the Canadian educational system. Under are handled by provincial legislatures each province controlling and dictating such affairs as it sees best. It is within the right of the province to recognize or not the certificates of teachers from other provinces. Each province has its own pet fads and stressing points, depending on the enthusiasms of those in authority. There is no identity of text books, though different provinces may use the same text book for certain studies. It will be readily seen that the result lacks uniformity. Teachers are not always interchangeable, without further examinations. A child moving from province to province is likely to see saw from grade to grade. The tendency naturally is to "provincialize" primary learning.

And yet, when the matter came up for discussion locally, it was argued that Canada is too diversified and wide-spread to get best results from a strictly national educational program.

It is true that two and two make four both on the Pacific and Atlantic Coasts. But the past history and founding of Nova Scotia is vastly different from that of Alberta. The geographic conditions and provincial industries of B. C. and Manitoba have little similarity of interest. Even the readers and supplementary literature to awaken greatest interest must have a local appeal, especially in junior grades.

It is hard to see how these difficulties could be overcome in a national program. In public schools, the child mind is gradually trained from the concrete and strictly local, to the gradually expanding horizons of provincial affairs, and from these to the Dominion. With the topography, resources and historical heritage of each province so very different, what could be the common meeting ground which would appeal to the dawning interest of children from coast to coast.

ARROWWOOD NEWS

A large turnout of baseball enthusiasts was convened at Arrowwood on Thursday evening, consisting of representatives from Blackie, Vulcan, Queenstown and Arrowwood, gathered together with the object of forming a baseball league, if possible. About twenty-five representatives were present in all and a very enthusiastic meeting was held. On account of the great distance between Bassano and Blackie there was some hesitation in the forming of a league to include both clubs, as it was thought more convenient for two leagues to be formed and arrangements more for a final play-off of the winners of the two leagues. Vulcan representatives were not in a position to say that they could enter the league which left only three teams south of the Bow River and made two leagues out of consideration. Gleich representatives failed to arrive and when they were reached by phone they stated that they would not be in a position to enter a league with towns so far apart. This left four towns, Blackie, Queenstown, Bassano and Arrowwood still willing to form a league and upon a motion being duly made and seconded these towns became the components of the Bow Valley league.

The following officers were elected to serve the league: W. W. Sloan, Queenstown, president; Jack Schmidt Blackie, vice president; Dick Lyle, Arrowwood, secretary-treasurer. A motion was carried to the effect that the secretary-treasurer would correspond with prospective parties who might be interested in putting up a cup for the winner of the league and in case no donation cup could be gotten, each team would be taxed an amount sufficient to buy a cup to be given the winning team of the league. Motion also made that the number of games to be played would be two home and home games for each team, making a total of twelve games for the season. Each club must also put up with the secretary the sum of $35.00 as a guarantee that they will finish the scheduled games. All players of the various clubs must be registered with the secretary on or before June 20th. Each club promised to give the other clubs in the league prior rights in all tournaments held by the different towns. The first game of the season was scheduled for Thursday evening, May 16th, between Arrowwood and Queenstown at Arrowwood.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

In line with the policy of the Alberta government to promote the eradication and control of noxious weeds, twenty field supervisors will be stationed at various points throughout the province, it is announced by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture. These men will act in conjunction with municipal councils and local weed inspectors in an intensive educational campaign directed against the further spread of noxious weeds. While they will be vested with authority to enforce the provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act an attempt will be made in every case to secure the desired results through education and co-operation with the farmers in the districts in which they are stationed. In addition to this, some 20 inspectors have been appointed by the Minister of Agriculture to carry on this work in local improvement districts throughout the province.

Oil Production Sets New Record
Establishing a new high mark in the history of the province, oil production delivered to the refineries from wells in the Turner Valley field during the month of April reached a total of 69,207 barrels. This production shows an increase of 12,506 barrels over that of the preceding month the gain being largely contributed by an increased flow from Home No. 1, Royaltie No. 8, Dalhousie No. 1 and Okalta No. 1 wells.

Live Stock Pool Plans Sign-up Campaign

An intensive sign-up campaign from June 1 to July 21, has been arranged by the directors of the Alberta Live Stock Pool in connection with the second series contract. The new contract is for a five year period with a renewal clause at the end of that time and makes provision for share capital at $5. per share to bear interest at 6 per cent. for the acquiring of facilities and the carrying on the business of the pool.

Contracts Awarded on C.P.R.

Construction will be started on a number of extensions to Canadian Pacific lines in Alberta according to an announcement made last week by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of western lines. The Lacombe and North-western line will be extended from the present terminus at Breton a distance of twenty miles to Thorshy from where it will eventually be continued to Leduc. Twenty-five miles of grade will be constructed from Arrowwood to Blackie by the Tomlinson Construction Company of Winnipeg, while contracts for the 15-mile grade northeast from Acme and 41 miles of the Coronation-Youngstown line have been awarded to F. Mannix of Calgary. Construction of the 25-mile line from Willingdon to Vegreville, on which work was started last fall, is progressing steadily.

1928 Active Building Season

Building contracts awarded in Alberta during the year 1928 reached a total value of $17,909,700 showing an increase of approximately 130 per cent over the corresponding figures, $7,507,300 for 1927. The contracts numbered 1437 in 1928 as compared with 892 in 1927. Included in the 1928 program of construction were 578 business and industrial structures valued at $12,851,000, 49 engineering projects costing $1,717,000 and 810 residences erected at a cost of $3,340,700.

THE MARLAND WELL

In a special edition last week, the Vancouver Daily Province speaks of the above in optimistic terms and, as several local gentlemen are owners of acreage in this field, we are reprinting, in part, the article referred to:

For three years geological parties of the Hudson's Bay Marland Oil Co. have worked over different areas in Alberta. The company has made many core tests and is now ready to make actual deep drilling tests.

The spot chosen for the first well which will be drilled by the company itself is at Eyremore, about twenty-two miles south and a little east of the town of Bassano. The Alberta Gas and Fuel Co. will drill another well for the company on a prospective structure near Champion.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company reports a record volume of new business during April. As a tribute to the manager of agencies, Mr. A. Mackenzie, the field force in Canada and United States designated the month "Mackenzie Month," making a special effort to spell the name "A. Mackenzie" with applications each application to count as a letter. Over fifty agents were successful in accomplishing this feat. The new assurances in Canada and United States for the month approximated seven million dollars, while the total business of the Company from all agencies exceeded ten million dollars.

Election of a new creamery building on 11th Avenue as headquarters of the Calgary District Producers' Association and the southern section of the Alberta Dairy Pool will be begun at once, according to an announcement following a meeting of representatives of both organizations here. Property for the new structure has been secured.

CANADIAN VIEWPOINT

tion, hydro, etc. Along the first 67 miles the river is deep and slow moving with little available water power. It might be cleared for navigation at little expense. The remaining 48 miles however consists of rapids and waterfalls. But Canada has cons.

Why should Canada destroy these existing Canadian canals which largely serve present needs, in order to build new dams, new locks, new power houses for which need is not pressing. And it is planned that this new construction will be in U. S. territory under U. S. jurisdiction. If we should wipe out our existing canal system, should we not be conceding the new locks at the two new dams, on the Canadian side.

In my opinion, negotiations re the St. Lawrence should be confined to this one strip of international territory alone, with New York State and Ontario sharing equally in hydro.

Then in course of time the Dominion Government might come to agreement with the province of Quebec, to improve the remaining strip of the St. Lawrence.

The southern sections of the United States is being hard hit this year. The flood situation was bad enough in the Mississippi Valley, and now comes along a tornado to kill a lot of people and do millions of dollars of damage. The people of Canada, even with a winter climate, snow storms, etc., escapes such devastation as that.
